

About Ford Power Products

Since 1947, Ford Power Products has sold power train solutions to original equipment manufacturers. Ford Component Sales (FCS) LLC, a subsidiary of Ford Motor Company, drives today's Power Products sales of engines, transmissions and related components into the industrial, marine, and on-highway marketplace.

FCS Power Products enjoys many advantages that are passed along to customers around the world, such as high-volume buys, superior power train technology and a dedicated distribution network.

Ford Component Sales not only provides quality products, but also can provide the technical support to assist with the product application through our global distributor/dealer group.

Global Network

Customer satisfaction is our primary goal; FCS has an extensive Sales and Distributor / Dealer network that are dedicated to providing the best service - before, during and after the sale.
